Foreword

Dear esteemed readers,

It gives me great pleasure to present this Coffee & Cocoa Directory Uganda, the premier comprehensive guide to farmers, buyers, exporters, service providers, organizations and other stakeholders within the Coffee and Cocoa sub-sectors. The directory was developed by the Government of Uganda through the Uganda Coffee Development Authority (UCDA) with funding from the European Union under the Market Access Upgrade Programme (MARKUP). The overall objective of MARKUP is to contribute to the economic development of Uganda by increasing the value of coffee and cocoa exports with the main focus on exports to the European Union and East African Community. One of the key deliverables of MARKUP is to develop a directory of coffee and cocoa value chain actors and the related industries.

UCDA is delighted to inaugurate the first Coffee & Cocoa Directory as an information tool that will facilitate the stakeholders in different ways such as: knowing who does what in the subsectors; accessing direct contacts of buyers and suppliers; increasing visibility of local produce to the regional and international markets; and facilitating business conversations and networking between actors that may result into future sales, collaborations and possible partnerships. The publication has been produced in both print and digital formats. The searchable online version can be accessed via the website of UCDA (www.ugandacoffee.go.ug). Printed directory copies are available for stakeholders at UCDA's Kampala head office.

The directory comprises business listings along the sub-sector value chain categorized into four main sections: agro-input and equipment suppliers; farmers and producers; traders, processors and exporters; and supporting businesses and organizations. Most business listings consist of the basic business contact information which includes: the business name, physical location, key contact persons, telephone numbers, email addresses, website and description of products and services. Some subscribers went an extra mile to provide information on the year of business establishment, certifications, interests in the market, social media channels, membership and partnership details among others.

We are grateful to the private sector businesses, farmer cooperatives, associations, organizations, government institutions and development partners who have supported this publication through sharing contact business information and cooperating with the consultant, Sharon Againe. We also appreciate guidance from Ministry of Agriculture, Animal Industry and Fisheries (MAAIF) staff that previously did great research on cocoa production in Uganda.

On behalf of the Government of Uganda, we appreciate the European Union for funding MARKUP; A.E.S.A Consortium for technical assistance; UCDA staff; MAAIF team; and to all the experts for your tireless efforts and innovative ideas that made this publication possible. Our doors remain open for feedback on making this publication a better one.

Thank you.
