Coffee prices on Tuesday dropped to 1 week lows as signs of adequate coffee supplies weighed on prices for a second day, after the International Coffee Organization (ICO) reported on Monday that October-January global coffee exports rose by 3.7% over the year to 41.876 million bags. Weakness in the Brazilian currency (Real) also undercut Arabica prices. The real fell by 0.78% Tuesday to a 3-3/4 month low against the dollar, which provides an incentive for export selling by Brazil's coffee producers.
